Dimitry Ivashchenko, Bass

"But it was Ivashchenko who stole the show with his most beautiful, distinctive deep tone and very flexible range, especially in the lower register." - MusicalCriticism.com, November 2007

He was highly acclaimed by public and press alike when presenting his first Philippe of DON CARLOS in the original French version in Darmstadt as well as for his appearance as Kaspar in DER FREISCHÜTZ at the Baden-Baden Festival under Thomas Hengelbrock. Despite his young age, the Russian bass won also great acclaim for his impressive portrayal of Gurnemanz in PARSIFAL and for Méphistophélès in Gounod's FAUST.

Mr. Ivashchenko is Russian and a graduate of the Glinka Conservatory in Novosibirsk. After moving to Germany, he completed his studies at the Music High School of Karlsruhe.
